

EMPIRE STATE COLLEGE

Are You Thinking About Returning To College? The Harry Van Arsdale Jr. Center for Labor Studies can help you with your decision.

The Harry Van Arsdale Jr. Center for Labor Studies makes a college education possible for union members and other working people. Wage-earning Americans built this country and keep it running every day. However, today, with the changing economy and fierce competition, to do it more efficiently requires college-level learning and skills. Educational efforts and experiences of working Americans deserve to be recognized and rewarded.

As part of Empire State College, of the State University of New York, the Harry Van Arsdale Jr. Center for Labor Studies is able to provide flexible learning options that have made the college a national leader in innovative teaching, design and delivery.

The college will be conducting information sessions in spring and summer of 2010 at union and club meetings. Experienced outreach coordinators will help you one on one and in groups to make the sessions easy and comfortable for you. If you desire further information, please complete the attached coupon and return it to the Educational and Cultural Trust Fund office, or call the Educational and Cultural Trust Fund Department at (718) 591-2000, ext 1530.
